"CARRY ON," IS OFFICIAL
CRY

The caution issued recently in Portland by James F. Pershing, brother of General Pershing, against relaxation of war work activities, has been echoed in messages issued by departmental heads in Washington, D. C., some of which were sent to executive Secretary John Keefe, of the Oregon State Council Defense. "Carry on" is the theme of these telegrams, whose authors felt the German peace proposals might interfere with campaign plans just formulated. Consequently, the United War Work drive, which opens November 11, will be conducted with even more vigor than has Germany not sought to bring about peace on her own terms. The departmental heads, as well as Mr. Pershing, emphasize the need of continued activities by the several affiliated organizations participating in the drive, even after hostilities have ceased.

GENERAL PERSHING MODEST MAN

That General Pershing wants the success of the American in France, and to avoid, so far as possible, any glory for himself, is a fact which James F. Pershing, brother of the American leader in the field, in an address delivered in Portland recently, made plain. The United War Work drive, which opens November 11, The general paid a tribute to the men in the ranks, and gave his audience an insight into the high esteem in which they are held by their commander. He showed the importance of war work in this country as an imperative duty to the victory of the Allies in the battles for democracy, and that no diminution in speed be allowed to result through recent peace proposals. Unqualified endorsement of the United War Work drive was given by Mr. Pershing who is one of the leading authorities on conditions existing along the battlefront. He was especially desirous that the relaxation of efforts in the war effort be relaxed.
